PART C: Reading Comprehension

Directions: Read the following three passages and select the choice (1), (2), (3), or (4) that best answers each question. Then mark the correct choice on your answer sheet.

Passage 1:

There is much promise in some crime prevention strategies, insofar as they are shown to reduce crime and thereby reduce the load on the law enforcement agencies and the labelling of people as offenders. The history of “auto-crime” shows the considerable impact of introducing steering locks in the 1960s in reducing thefts and takings of cars—a far more significant reduction than could have been achieved by all but the most draconian sentencing policy—and in the 1990s motor manufacturers cooperated in improving car security as part of a renewed effort against these types of crime. However, although some crime prevention strategies appear so promising that they should be pursued with much greater vigor than at present, there are at least three drawbacks which must be borne in mind. One is that the number of small local projects far outstrips the amount of careful and rigorous evaluation. Schemes are often difficult to evaluate, and not just because one has to investigate possible “displacement” effects, in the shape of lawbreaking of other kinds or in other areas. The political attractions of crime prevention initiatives are sometimes allowed to run ahead of proper assessments of their effectiveness. A second danger is that the schemes will be used to spread the net of social control, promoting so called “community” initiatives in a way which increases state control over individuals, families and neighborhoods and therefore brings other disadvantages. Insufficient attention has been paid to ethical issues in crime prevention, raised by a number of techniques (such as CCTV).

- 21- What is the passage mainly about?
- 1) The impact of introducing steering locks in the 1960s
 - 2) Merits and demerits of crime prevention strategies
 - 3) The heavy load on the law enforcement agencies
 - 4) New crime prevention strategies
- 22- The word “outstrips” in line 11 means
- 1) signifies
 - 2) supplies
 - 3) surpasses
 - 4) solicits
- 23- The word “their” in line 15 refers to
- 1) assessments
 - 2) initiatives
 - 3) attractions
 - 4) schemes
- 24- The passage supplies sufficient information to answer which of the following questions?
- I. What did car manufacturers do in the 1990s?
 - II. Why exactly are schemes difficult to evaluate?
 - III. What is the third shortcoming of crime prevention strategies?
- 1) Only I
 - 2) Only III
 - 3) I and III
 - 4) II and III
- 25- What is the function of the last sentence of the passage?
- 1) It offers a cause for a previously-mentioned effect.
 - 2) It serves as an antithesis to what was mentioned earlier.
 - 3) It serves as a minor support sentence for the second drawback.
 - 4) It provides an example to elaborate on “community” initiatives.

Passage 2:

Among the thinkers influenced by Burke was the French diplomat and polemicist Joseph de Maistre, who developed his own more extreme brand of conservatism, known as Latin conservatism, early in the 19th century. Whereas Burkean conservatism was evolutionary, the conservatism of Maistre was counterrevolutionary. Both men favored tradition over the radical innovations of the French Revolution, but the traditions they avored were very different: Burke rejected the revolution for the sake of traditional liberties, Maistre for the sake of traditional authority—especially the authority of monarch and church. Burke was not authoritarian but constitutionalist—and always parliamentary—whereas Maistre, in stressing the authority of the traditional elite, is often justifiably called not conservative but reactionary.

Indeed, Maistre rejected the entire heritage of the Enlightenment, attributing the revolutionary disorders of Europe to pernicious Enlightenment ideas. He presented a picture of human beings as essentially emotional and prone to disorder and evil unless controlled within a tight political structure dominated by rulers, priests, and the threat of the public executioner. Against the French Revolutionary slogan “Liberty, equality, fraternity,” Maistre proclaimed the value of “Throne and altar.” His program called for a restoration of hereditary and absolute monarchy in France, though it would be a more religious and less frivolous monarchy than before.

- 26- Which of the following best describes the organization of the first paragraph?
- 1) Cause and effect: Focus on effect
 - 2) Cause and effect: Focus on cause
 - 3) Comparison-contrast: Block method
 - 4) Comparison-contrast: Point by point method
- 27- Which of the following statements is true?
- 1) Latin conservatism is known as an extreme brand of conservatism.
 - 2) Burke favored the French Revolution, whereas Maistre did not.
 - 3) Burke favored hereditary and absolute monarchy.
 - 4) Maistre had a lot of influence on Burke's ideas.
- 28- Which of the following statements is true?
- 1) It is better to regard Burke as a reactionary figure rather than a conservative one.
 - 2) Maistre's conservatism is best described as counterrevolutionary.
 - 3) Burke had a more authoritarian attitude compared to Maistre.
 - 4) Maistre believed in the constitution, while Burke did not.
- 29- The word “pernicious” in paragraph 2 means
- 1) repressive
 - 2) progressive
 - 3) deceptive
 - 4) destructive
- 30- Maistre viewed human being as creatures who
- 1) naturally welcome a tight political structure dominated by rulers
 - 2) are innately pure and innocent, so they do not need to be closely watched
 - 3) have a tendency toward evil practices, so they should be tightly controlled
 - 4) are naturally evildoers, yet they do not need to be threatened by the public executioner

Passage 3:

Peter Wakker obtained his first training in the fields of mathematics that focus on probability, statistics, and optimization. From there it was a very short hop to the study of economic decision making under risk. Wakker is one of the leading theorists in the world regarding decision under risk and uncertainty. He has written dozens of articles using mathematical theory to examine risky behavior, earning his position as one of the most highly cited economic theorists. His research has won several awards including the Career Achievement Award for the Society of Medical Decision Making. Among his most-cited articles are those examining the use of various probability or decision weighting schemes, development of the cumulative prospect theory model and several other models of risky decision behavior. Wakker has written two books, the first providing a thorough treatment of the use of prospect theory for decisions under risk as well as uncertainty. He has an encyclopedic knowledge of the research literature on risk and uncertainty. As a service to the field, he publishes an annually updated annotated bibliography of risk research that is of vital use to anyone entering the field.

- 31- The word “hop” in line 2 means
